

Harrington Hill Primary School

Hackney Council is considering consulting on changes to Oldhill Primary School that may affect Harrington Hill Primary School that would apply on 31 August 2025. This is because the significant fall in pupil numbers has caused the financial position of Oldhill Primary School to worsen to the point that it is no longer possible for the Council to maintain.

The Council is considering two options to respond to the challenges faced by Oldhill Primary School:

1. A merger with Harrington Hill Primary School. In this case, Oldhill Primary School would close and its pupils would be offered a place at Harrington Hill Primary School. Harrington Hill would expand from one to two classes per year group and would operate on the current site of Harrington Hill Primary School
- or
2. Closure of Oldhill Primary School.

There is a children's centre on the same site as Oldhill Primary School. Should Oldhill School close, the children's centre would continue to operate on the same site under the management of Harrington Hill, another school or the Council.

What is a merger?

A merger (also known as 'amalgamation') brings together two or more schools to form one school - on one site and under a single leadership.

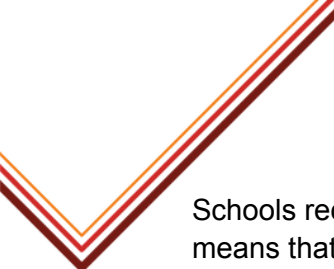

Merging schools that have seen a large fall in pupil numbers can bring significant benefits, including:

- Establishing a stronger, more durable single school, that is better equipped to respond to the needs of children and staff and to continue to improve
- More specialist expertise from a wider teaching team
- Stronger finances
- More resources to provide extended services to local families, such as breakfast and afterschool clubs

Why are these options being proposed?

There are falling numbers of children in many parts of London. The reasons behind this are thought to include lower birth rates, the cap on housing benefits, and families leaving London (as a result of the housing crisis, the cost of living, Brexit, and the pandemic).

Similarly to other boroughs, there are not enough children in Hackney and neighbouring areas seeking places in our primary schools. This is expected to remain a problem in following years, despite Hackney building new homes, as the likely number of additional school-aged children will not be enough to solve these issues.

Schools receive money from the central government based on the number of pupils. This means that schools that have many empty places receive less funding, which in the long run negatively impacts the quality of education they can offer. They have less money for staff, resources, equipment, extracurricular activities, to pay bills and to carry out maintenance work.

Oldhill Primary School has been seriously affected by falling rolls. This has increased the risk that in the long run it would be unable to maintain the high quality education for our community.

Harrington Hill Primary School has also been affected by falling rolls. The number of children on roll decreased by 17% between October 2021 and October 2023, and the school continues to have a significant number of unfilled reception places this school year.

In April 2022, Harrington Hill had a surplus balance of £492,703. By April 2024, this has reduced to £117,453 - an overspend of £375,250 over the last two years. Harrington Hill as a one form entry school is still in difficult financial circumstances and could benefit from the longer term security that a merger would provide.

A large part of the building of Harrington Hill School is unoccupied, and could easily be adapted to fit a larger school with an additional provision for children with special educational needs and disabilities.

While our schools (including Oldhill and Harrington Hill) are recognised for their high performance and excellent results, they face significant challenges due to the reduced government funding caused by the falling rolls. Many schools have already told us that this is affecting their ability to fully support their pupils, especially those with the greatest needs.

Like many other local authorities, Hackney Council is facing enormous financial challenges, and needs to make substantial savings to be able to continue to protect the borough's most vulnerable residents. The Council cannot afford to financially support schools that are not sustainable, and must continue to make difficult decisions to make sure our schools are fit for the future, and to protect the high quality education that Hackney is known for.

A merger between Oldhill and Harrington Hill could help the merged school become stronger and better prepared for the future. It could allow it to get access to more resources that would benefit the wider, diverse school community.

We know our schools have very close ties to the local area and community, sometimes over many generations. This makes these proposals very difficult, and not something we would ever choose if we felt there was a better option.

We will work together with school leaders to support children, families, staff and communities through the next steps. We will do all we can to protect the education and wellbeing of all those affected.

What will happen next?

The Council's Cabinet will meet on 30 September to decide whether to consult on these proposals. If the decision is to proceed, we will launch a consultation by mid-October to gather views on the proposals. No final decision will be made until April 2025.

What would happen to my child if Oldhill Primary School merges with Harrington Hill Primary School?

If the final decision is to merge with Harrington Hill Primary School, all children at Oldhill will be guaranteed a place at Harrington Hill Primary School, which will be expanded to fit all children from both schools.

Children with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND), with or without an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHCP), will receive additional support to ensure a smooth transition.

Oldhill has an additional resource provision (ARP) for children with Autistic Spectrum Condition (ASC). If the final decision is to merge Oldhill with Harrington Hill, this would transfer to the Harrington Hill site, with no reduction to the borough's SEND places. If the final decision is to close Oldhill, the Additional Resource Provision would transfer to another local school. Pupils currently attending the provision would be supported to transfer to this school in a phased process, to minimise the negative impact on their wellbeing.

When will I be able to find more information, and have my say?

More details about the proposals can be found in the Cabinet report, which will be published on 20 September on the Hackney Council website.

If the Cabinet's decision is to go to the next step, a consultation should begin by mid-October. Consultation documents will then be shared with you through your school. Further information (including frequently asked questions and answers) will also be available on the Hackney Education website. The Council and the school leaders will organise meetings with parents and carers as part of the consultation process.
